Turks Get Constantinople

Allies Give in to Turks, Who are Once More Established in Europe

FREEDOM OF STRAITS DEMANDED

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The Allied conference on the Near East has agreed to send a note to the Ankara Government assuring the return of Constantinople to the Turks and demanding the freedom of the Straits.

LATER:—It is officially stated that the Allies offer to support the return of Adrianople and Thrace up to the Maritsa River to the Turks if the Kemalists refrain from entering the neutral zone along the Straits or crossing the Sea of Marmora.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The return of Turkey to Europe was assured last night when Great Britain, France and Italy at a final session of the Allied conference unanimously agreed to concede all the Nationalist peace terms. The Turkish claims to Eastern Thrace to the Maritsa, and including the ancient Turkish capital of Adrianople, were approved as peace terms that can be supported by France, Great Britain and Italy in a joint invitation sent to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Nationalist leader, to a peace conference to be held at Venice at the earliest possible date. The Kemalists must agree in return not to enter the present neutral zone along the Straits, nor make any crossing elsewhere, and must accept complete freedom of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus under the League of Nations. The invitation, which was cabled last night by M. Poincaré to Kemal Pasha, personally urges an immediate meeting of Allied and Turkish and Greek generals at Mudanya to formulate terms of an armistice pending the conference. It is regarded as virtually certain that Kemal will accept the conditions and a reply is expected from Smyrna in a day or two. In addition to their concessions Turkey is promised the support of the three Allies for admission to the League of Nations, and also the withdrawal of Allied troops from Constantinople as soon as peace becomes effective. The Allied decision came as a big surprise, for as late as noon British officials declared that Great Britain would not approve any of the Turkish claims in advance of the peace conference. The change in this policy came in the afternoon after the exchange of many messages between Lord Curzon and Premier Lloyd George and several long distance conversations, which delayed the final session from two o'clock to five. Although the British insist that their chief demand, namely the free-

LLOYD GEORGE EXPLAINS THE BRITISH POLICY

Two Supreme Considerations

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Premier Lloyd George said today that whatever steps the Government had taken to strengthen the military and naval forces in the Dardanelles and Bosphorus, had been dictated by two supreme considerations, first "our anxiety as to the freedom of the seas between the Mediterranean and Black Sea," and second, "to prevent this exceptionally prodigious war from spreading into Europe." The Prime Minister declared at the outset he would like to make it clear that any action that had been taken had nothing to do with the merits or demerits of the case under dispute between Greece and the Turks. The British Government, said the Premier, had been impartial as between the Greeks and the Turks. He pointed out that a few weeks ago the Greeks threatened to march to Constantinople, and at that time General Harrington, the British General in chief command at Constantinople, had warned the Greeks in "identical terms as the warning now given to Mustapha Kemal Pasha." In dealing with the question of the freedom of the Straits, Mr. Lloyd George said what had happened in the late war

Greeks Will Not Tolerate Invasions By Kemalists

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—The Greeks who claimed to have seven divisions in Thrace have informed the Allies they will not tolerate invasions by the Kemalists. They declare the scattered Hellenic forces are unified and strengthened and are in position to drive out the Nationalists. Unless London and Paris come to an understanding with Athens it is feared here the Greek army in this territory may act. If successful the further fear is entertained this might bring war to the gates of Constantinople.

Turks Want Enter Thrace at all Costs

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 5.—There is an apparent disposition on the part of the Kemalists to accept Great Britain's new terms regarding Thrace and other disputed points, they are not willing, however, to give pledges for suspension of hostilities while the peace conference is sitting. The Kemalists insist, says Hamid Bey, Nationalist representative here, on the right to enter Thrace in order to liberate suppressed Moslem subjects. "All we seek is to maintain a small force upon the Mohammedan world and to preserve order," he said, and continued, "It has been suggested that the Allies could only permit us to occupy Thrace under the supervision of the Allied control commission, but we cannot submit to such conditions. We must have perfect freedom in military, financial and administrative matters. We must move on Thrace while our Greek adversaries are impotent. We can give no respite. We have fought long for our present opportunity, we must now make them realities."

He was barely able to respond to the bell beginning with the sixth, and with his right eye completely closed and nose broken he was unable to put up a guard. Carpentier tried every trick in his ring knowledge to stave off defeat. Carpentier weighed 173½ lbs., and Siki 174.

THE FOUR-POOLS MYSTERY

CHAPTER XIII.

The Inquest.

His only conjecture was that it was the print he had left when he passed over the path on his way to the entrance.

The print was not in the path, he was informed; it was the wet clay on the edge of the precipice.

Radnor shrugged. In that case it could not be the print of his boot. He had kept to the path.

In regard to the match-box, he was equally unsatisfactory. He acknowledged that it was his, but could not more account for its presence in the path than the coroner himself.

"When do you remember having seen it last?" the coroner inquired.

Radnor pondered. "I remember lending it to Mrs. Mathers when she was building a fire in the woods to make the coffee; after that I don't remember anything about it."

"How do you account for its presence at the scene of the murder?"

"I can only conjecture that it must have dropped from my pocket without my noticing it on my way out of the cave."

The coroner observed that it was an unfortunate coincidence that he had dropped it in just that particular spot.

This effectually stopped Radnor's testimony. Not another word could be elicited from him on the subject, and he was finally dismissed and Mrs. Mathers called in the box.

She remembered borrowing the match-box, but then someone had called her away, and she could not remember what she had done with it. She thought she must have returned it, because she always did return things, but she was not at all sure. Very possibly she had kept it, and dropped it herself on her way out of the cave.

It was evident that she did not wish to say anything which would incriminate Radnor; and she was really too perturbed to remember what she had done. Several other people were questioned, but no further light could be thrown on the subject of the match box; and so it remained in the end, as it had been in the beginning, merely a very nasty piece of circumstantial evidence.

This ended the hearing for the day, and the inquest was postponed until ten o'clock the following morning. So far no words had been dropped touching the haunt, but I was filled with apprehension as to what the next day would bring forth. I knew that if the subject came up, it would end once for all Radnor's chance of escaping trial before the grand jury. And that would mean, at the best, two months more of prison. What it would mean at the worst I did not like to consider.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Jury's Verdict

My first glance about the room the next morning showed me only too plainly what direction the inquiry was going to take. In the farther corner, half hidden by Mattison's broad back, sat Clancy, the Washington detective. I recognized him with an angry feeling of discouragement. If we were to have his version of the stolen bonds, Radnor's last hope of gaining public sympathy was gone.

Radnor was the first person to be called in the box. He had not noticed the detective, and I did not have a chance to inform him of his presence.

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months Could Not Turn in Bed. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4600 Orcas St., Seattle, Washington.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed.

If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may not only relieve the present distress, but prevent the development of more serious trouble.

The coroner plunged immediately into the question of the robbery and the haunt, and it was only too evident from Radnor's troubled eyes that it was a subject he did not wish to talk about.

"You have recently had a robbery at your house, Mr. Gaylord?"

"Yes."

"Please describe just what was stolen."

"Five bonds—Government four per cents—a bag of coin—about twenty dollars in all—and two deeds and an insurance policy."

"You have not been able to trace the thief?"

"No."

"In spite of every effort?"

"Well, we naturally looked into the matter."

"But you have been able to form no theory as to how the bonds were stolen?"

"No, I have no theory whatever."

"You employed a detective, I believe?"

"Yes."

"And he arrived at no theory?"

Radnor hesitated visibly while he framed an answer.

"He arrived at no theory which successfully covered the facts."

"But he did have a theory as to the whereabouts of the bonds, did he not?"

"Yes—but it was without any foundation, and I prefer not to go into it."

The coroner abandoned the point. "Mr. Gaylord, there has lately been a rumour among the negroes working at your place in regard to the appearance of a ghost, has there not?"

"Yes."

"Can you offer any light on the subject?"

"The negroes are superstitious and easily frightened. When the rumour of a ghost gets started it grows. The most of the stories existed only in their own imaginations."

"You believe, then, that there was no foundation whatever to any of the stories?"

"I should rather not go into that."

"Mr. Gaylord, do you believe that the ghost had any connection with the robbery?"

"No, I do not."

"Do you think that the ghost had any connection with the murder of your father?"

"No," said Radnor.

"That is all, Mr. Gaylord. James Clancy."

As the name Radnor suddenly raised his head and half turned back as if to speak, but thinking better of it, he resumed his chair and watched the approach of the detective with an angry frown. Clancy did not glance at Radnor, but gave his evidence in a quick, incisive way which forced the breathless attention of everyone in the room. He told without interruption the story of his arrival at Four-Pools, and his conclusions in regard to the haunt and the theft; he omitted, however, all mention of the letter.

"Am I to understand that you never made your conclusions known to Colonel Gaylord?" the coroner asked.

"No, I had been employed by him, but I thought under the circumstances it was kinder to leave him in ignorance."

"That was a generous stand to take. I suppose you lost something in the way of a fee?"

The detective looked slightly uncomfortable over the question.

"Well, no, as it happened I didn't. There was a sort of cousin—Mr. Crosby—he nodded toward me—

"visiting in the house, and he footed the bill. He seemed to think the young man hadn't intended to steal, and that it would be pleasant all around if I left it for them to settle between themselves."

"I protest!" I cried. "I distinctly stated my conviction that Radnor Gaylord knew nothing of the bonds, and I paid him, because I did not wish him troubling Colonel Gaylord with any such make-up story."

"Mr. Clancy is testifying," observed the coroner. "Now, Mr. Clancy, as I understand it, you discovered as you supposed the guilty man, and instead of going to your employer with the story and receiving your pay from him, you accepted it from the person you had accused—or at least from his friend?"

"I've explained the circumstances; it was a mere matter of accommodation."

"I suppose you know what such accommodation is called?"

"If you mean it was blackmail—that's false. At least," he added, quickly relapsing into good nature, "it was a mighty generous kind of blackmail. I could have got my pay fast enough from the Colonel, but I didn't want to stir up trouble. We all know that it isn't the innocent who pay blackmail," he added parenthetically.

"Do you mean to insinuate that Mr. Crosby is implicated?"

"Lord, no! He's as innocent as a lamb. Young Gaylord was too smart for him; he hoodwinked him as well as the Colonel into believing the bonds were stolen while he was out of the house."

A smile ran around the room, and the detective was excused. I sprang to my feet.

"One moment!" I said. "I should like to ask Mr. Clancy some questions."

The young man was turned over to me, plainly against his wishes.

"What proof have you, Mr. Clancy, that the bonds were not stolen while Mr. Gaylord was not in the house?"

"Well, my investigations led me to believe that he stole them, and that being the case, it must have been done before he left the house."

"I see! And your investigations concerned themselves largely with a letter which you filched from Mr. Gaylord's coat-pocket in the night, did they not?"

"Not entirely—the letter merely struck me as corroborative evidence, though I have since learned—"

"Mr. Clancy," I interrupted sternly, "did you not tell me at the time that that letter was absolute proof of his guilt—yes or no?"

"I may have said so, but—"

"Mr. Clancy, will you kindly repeat what was in that letter?"

"It referred to some bonds; I don't know that I can recall the exact words."

German Potatoes

Cheap In England

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Potato dumping is the latest accusation made against Germany by tariff reformers who for some time have been clamoring for the imposition of higher duties against imports from Germany. No long ago British farmers were getting from £10 to £18 a ton for their potatoes. Now they find them a drug in the market at prices as low as £2.

"The explanation of this fall," says one authority, "is wholesale dumping by German and Dutch growers. The German Government, before and during the war, stimulated the growth of potatoes in order to provide a reserve of food and also for the distillation of alcohol. This overplus has been thrown on the British market, the only one which will admit it without heavy duties, and it has been sold for what it will fetch. As a result the unfortunate British farmer, is being reduced to something very near despair, and in some cases is refusing to market his crop."

DOMINIONS NEED CAPITAL AS WELL AS IMMIGRANTS

This Is Now Being Recognized In Great Britain—Empire Trade Policy—Figures Do Not Indicate That Much Progress Has Been Made In This Direction In Recent Years.

(Special to The Financial Post). LONDON.—The British Government is engaged in an agitation to enlist public interest in the possibilities of a comprehensive and aggressive programme to promote the development of the Empire through the supervised movement of capital and immigrants to the Dominions and the encouragement of inter-Empire trade. Lord Lugard, former Colonial Secretary, is president of the Union, and he has gathered around him many notable supporters. Sir Vincent Callard, a director of Vickers and of the London, Chatham and Dover Railway, is vice-president, and Mr. Herwins, the distinguished economist and a former Under-Secretary for the Colonies, is the chairman.

The arguments of the Union that the resources of the Empire be developed to meet in the first place the requirements of the Empire probably does not need amplification; but, as it happens, this is not the tendency at the present time. On the contrary, trade returns show that the United Kingdom has only maintained her trade portion in the case of one of the Dominions, South Africa. Britain's percentage of the trade of South Africa which was 54.4 in 1913 was 54.7 in 1921—not a large increase. British exports to Canada decreased between the years ending March, 1913, and March, 1922, from £21,239,000 to £14,162,000, although Canada's total imports during the same period increased from £127,856,000 to £153,215,000. Canada's imports from the United States during the year ending March, 1922, were four and a half times her imports from the United Kingdom, though the United Kingdom purchased from Canada goods equal in value to the purchases of the United States.

Great Britain's share of Australia's import trade declined from 51.8 per cent. in 1913 to 40 per cent. in 1921. Britain still holds the leading position in Australia's trade, but America and Japan have been making advances.

An Empire Policy

The Imperial Chamber of Commerce and the London Chamber of Commerce have at recent meetings discussed the question of devising an Empire development policy, and strong representations have been made to the Imperial Government. But Lloyd George is now preoccupied with the European problem, believing apparently that if the reparations question is adjusted in a manner favorable to Germany that country and all Europe will experience a business revival and become big purchasers of British goods, thus solving the problem of the restoration of British industry and British unemployment. There are those, however, who suggest that the British Government should not build too many hopes on the possibility of an early business revival. They point out that while the Allies relieved Austria of the obligations to pay reparations this country has not been able to restore the economic life; and although there is little comparison between the industrial vitality of Germany and Austria carved by the Treaty of Versailles, the implication is not without interest. Further it is suggested that relieving Germany of her burden may enable her to take a much greater advantage of any general business revival than Britain may be able to do, and thus the relatively high-priced goods of Britain may still go begging for a market, especially if the Allies are not able to exercise some control over Germany's finances and the fluctuations of the mark—a matter which as yet does not appear to be envisaged by Lloyd George's policy. Another consideration which militates against the hope that Britain may profit greatly from a possible business revival in Europe is that the countries of Europe, including the new nations created by the peace treaty, are rearing tariff walls which oppose greater barriers to Britain's export trade than existed before the war.

In these circumstances it is suggested that the British Government should give at least as much attention to the problem of Empire development, as to the problem of the restoration of the late enemy countries. Supporting this proposition recently Lord Beaverbrook pointed out that in 1913 British exports to Germany, Russia, Austria and the Balkan States were only 14 per cent. of her total exports. Under the new conditions it is hardly likely that Britain will be able to do as well in the markets of Central Europe and Russia as before the war, although there may be a temporary demand for machinery of considerable importance. In any case, Britain's markets in the Dominions and colonies in 1913 were more than twice the value of the European markets, which she now seeks to revive, and to-day they would seem to have much greater potentialities.

MUST INVEST CAPITAL.

The Empire Development Union recognizes that the systematic encouragement of the investment of British capital in the Dominions is a necessary condition of the satisfactory settlement of British immigrants under the flag overseas. Sending farmers with small capital, and farm laborers with no capital, is not enough for agriculture in the Dominions now has a productive capacity equal to its markets, and can be readily increased. Capital must be invested in the development of the natural resources in order to provide employment for British immigrants of the industrial class—men whose technique will help to round out the industrial life of the Dominions. And in spite of the Grand Trunk after there are many British investors who now wish they had sent their money to the Dominions instead of to Russia, Austria, and other foreign countries. According to some accounts the great international finances have diverted much British capital to Germany since the war, taking advantage of the exchange situation to invest in German enterprises. Some French journals assert that it is the explanation of the change in Lloyd George's attitude towards Germany. And if that is the case the British investors will wish they had looked into the opportunities in the Dominions, unless there is a very great improvement in the financial situation of the Reich.

Home Arrives

The S. S. Home, which went ashore at Barge Point in the Straits on the 11th inst., and was later floated, arrived here at 2 p.m. yesterday to be docked for repairs. The Home struck in a dense fog, going well up on the rocks and was held amidstships. She floated at high tide and was found to be leaking badly in her tanks. The extent of the damage is not known, but she will be docked today when a survey will be held. Owing to the ship's tanks being damaged it was necessary to bring her to harbor each day to get fresh water. When the steamer went ashore there were 12 passengers on board as well as a quantity of freight. The sea was quite calm and there was no immediate danger while the pumps were able to keep her free.

GARDEN PARTY AT EPWORTH

On Sept. 7th a garden party took place at Epworth, on Mr. C. Forsey's Field, which was beautifully decorated with trees and flags. It was a beautiful day and many people gathered around to take in the sights and tastes of the good things displayed on the tables. Fruit, candy, ice cream and drinks were sold on that day. Many attractions, such as a fish pond were enjoyed by all. Proceeds amounted to two hundred and sixty dollars ($260.00).

Instead of the Garden Party this year the W.H.M.S. of St. Thomas's Church intend spending the afternoon and evening of Wednesday at Canon Wood Hall, having as their guests Rev. Rev. Gordon was the preacher at St. Thomas's Church last evening and delivered an interesting discourse, taking as his text, "Suffer the Little Children to Come Unto Me." At the conclusion the Rector pledged him the continued support of the congregation.

OBITUARY

HENRY D. CARTER.

St. John's lost one of its most esteemed citizens yesterday when Mr. Henry D. Carter, youngest and only surviving son of the late Sir Frederick B. T. Carter, K.C.M.G., passed to his eternal reward after an illness extending over a year. Deceased, accompanied by Mrs. Carter, visited the Old Country for treatment early this year. About three months ago he returned to Newfoundland, and shortly after his illness assumed an acute form.

Mr. Carter was, until two years ago, the Assistant Manager of the Bank of Montreal in this city. His bank career covered a period of over 40 years. By 1894, when the Commercial Bank closed, he had won his way by sheer merit and devotion to duty to the accountancy of the Bank. His services were secured by the Bank of Montreal on its opening here a few weeks later. Since then his career was one of steady promotion, until his retirement in financial and business circles Mr. Carter was held in general respect and regard.

For some time he was a Churchwarden in St. Thomas's parish. He also held official positions in the City Club. Predeceased by his three brothers, Weston, a monument to whose memory is erected on the Mall, Hugh and Stanley, Barristers, the only remaining members of Sir Frederick's family are Mrs. Henderson and Miss Louisa Carter.

Mr. Carter was survived by his wife, daughter of the late Hon. James Baird, M.L.C., three sons, Cyril, director of the Bank of Montreal at Halifax, and Harry of this city, also by two daughters, Margaret, wife of Mr. Jack Baird, and Gertrude of this city.

Mr. Carter enjoyed the trust and confidence of a very large circle of friends in the city by all of whom his death is deeply deplored.

The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon from the residence of Mr. Cyril Carter, Queen's Road.

MISS COLE.

On Friday Miss Kate Cole passed away at Southsea, England, where she has been residing since leaving St. John's some five years ago. The news of her death will be received with sorrow by very many in this city, where her labors of charity and love are remembered with gratitude. Miss Cole's departure left vacancies in church and philanthropic work difficult to fill, and to the present day her guiding hand and helpful counsel are missed in many a phase of social and Christian endeavor. Notably is this so by the Methodist Orphanage, the Ladies' College Aid Society and George Street Church, the interests of all of which she watched over with solicitude. Her work for the orphaned children was invaluable, no toll, or tax on time and service being regarded by her as too great or too onerous. Miss Cole was a niece of the late Hon. Charles R. Ayre, and a sister of the late Mrs. J. E. P. Peters, is survived by her sister, Mrs. Alexander Robertson, of Long's Hill, this city, and relatives in Southsea, where interment will take place.

Yesterday's Collection

AMOUNT EXCEEDS LAST YEAR.

The annual collection for Belvedere Orphanage was taken up at the R. C. Churches yesterday and resulted in the total sum of $4,717.72, which surpasses last year's contributions by $27.07. The Cathedral parish gave $3,379.53, which was in excess of last year by $208.00, while St. Patrick's collected $1,103.50, and St. Joseph's $234.69. After Last Mass the collectors repaired to the Convent at Belvedere, where Mr. J. C. Pippy, as chairman, formally handed over the amount, and in doing so expressed the great pleasure it afforded him. Mr. W. J. Higgins and Mr. Joseph Fitzgibbon, for the Cathedral and St. Patrick's respectively, in fluent speeches congratulated the Sisters and thanked the donors and pledged the whole-hearted support of the Catholic community to any endeavour of the good Nuns. Mr. Frank Murphy spoke on the same lines for the outports, and Mr. J. J. Lacey, in supporting the previous speakers, took occasion to thank the press for much valuable assistance freely offered. Rev. Dr. Carter, on behalf of the Sisters, thanked all for their generous effort, citizens and collectors alike, and was pleased to note the growing enthusiasm amongst the Catholic young men in favor of Belvedere. He referred to the good work of the Sisters, who are now undertaking the furnishing of their Oratory and requested all present and all gentleman supporters to re-assemble at the Convent next Sunday after Last Mass to discuss the project further. A collectors' club will likely be formed and we bespeak for it the big success that its laudable object deserves. —COM.

Constantinople May Have Same Fate as Smyrna

ROME, Sept. 25.—A Komalst insurrection is being organized in Thrace, according to the Messagero in order to attack the Allies in Constantinople in the rear while the Komalst army from Asia Minor is advancing, taking the Allies between two fires. Fears are expressed, says the newspaper, that Smyrna's fate will also be Constantinople's.

For Dardanelles

MALTA, Sept. 23.—Further military detachments for reinforcement of British forces in the Dardanelles are expected to leave here soon for Constantinople, and preparations for their departure are actively proceeding. Units of the second destroyer fleet, detached from the Atlantic fleet to reinforce the squadron now in the Straits have commenced to come in. The warship Centurion, which returned from England, is expected to proceed to Constantinople immediately after taking on supplies.

In St. Mary's Bay

HALIFAX, Sept. 19.—M. E. Martin, who returned to St. John's (Nfld.) a few days ago, says that the codfishery in St. Mary's Bay was only fair and much below the reports that had reached St. John's. It is true that the schooners that went to the Grand Banks did well, but the inshore fleet did only middling, and were hampered quite a lot by dogfish. These pests are gone and the fishermen are doing better on trawls and may make up a voyage in the course of the fall. Cape St. Bride's had a poor fishery. The price being offered there for shore fish so far is $6.50 with a cull and $8 taking it talqual.

Nfld. Fish at Halifax

HALIFAX, Sept. 19.—Four schooners are in from Newfoundland with cargoes of fish, the Review, Captain Symonds, from Bonne Bay, with 1,417 quintals of codfish for discharge at Farquhar's wharf; the A. B. Francis, Captain Hanham, from Channel with 432 qtls. of codfish for Farquhar's; the Brunhilde, Captain Audrey Davis with 696 barrels of herring and 156 quintals of codfish for unloading at Smith's wharf and the Carranza, Captain H. Rowell, from Twillingate, for discharge also to the Farquhar firm.

Turks Retire When British Force is Met

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—British officials announce that a Turkish force of eleven hundred cavalry, which crossed the neutral zone at Chanaq on Saturday night, retired to-day following a meeting between the commanders of the Turkish and British forces. No shots were fired. The Turks retired under a white flag. The British notified the Turkish commander that a further forward movement would cause the British troops to open fire. The Turkish ultimatum allowed until five o'clock yesterday afternoon for guarantees respecting the return of Thrace and it was because no guarantees were forthcoming that the Turkish cavalry crossed the border.

Ferryland Man Dies From Injuries

James Clowe, a 24 year old fisherman of Ferryland, received injuries on Saturday afternoon from which he succumbed yesterday on board the S.S. Cabot, while being brought on here to the Hospital.

The deceased was returning home from the fishing grounds in his motor boat and was leaning over the engine house when the fly wheel of the V-horse power engine came off and smashing the woodwork struck Clowe with terrific force in the abdomen. He was knocked unconscious and on reaching shore was attended to by Dr. Freebairn, while Rev. Fr. Maher was also called. On recovering consciousness, it was seen that he was hurt internally, but it was not thought his condition was so serious. Yesterday he became worse, however, and he suffered intense pain, and it was deemed advisable to have him sent to the General Hospital. Sir M. P. Canlin received a message yesterday at noon telling him of the accident and as it was impossible to take him to the city by motor, asking that a steamer be sent. Sir Michael immediately arranged to send the Cabot and at 3:30 p.m. yesterday the ship left for Ferryland.

At 7:40 last evening the ship left with the injured man on board. He was accompanied by his brother and another relative. All possible for his comfort on board the steamer was done, but shortly after passing Cape Broyle he passed away. The Cabot thereupon returned to Ferryland with the body, where there is universal sympathy felt over his untimely end. Deceased, who was 24 years of age, is survived by a widow and one child.

Now Will the "Daily News" and "Telegram" Believe "Advocate"?

Complete and Astounding Proof Offered of Impertinent Protest Made by Canadian and British Interests Against Imperial Concessions in Connection with Humber!

TORY PRESS WILL NOW HAVE TO SWALLOW THEIR WORDS

We have been promising that before we had finished with the Tory Press over the sensational protest, which we announced on Monday last had been lodged by Canadian and British Interests against Imperial concessions to Newfoundland in connection with the Humber that the "Daily News" and "Telegram" would have to swallow their derisive and doubting words.

We upset their apple-card on Friday last when we quoted a paragraph from the actual protest. Then, true to type, the "News" and "Telegram" sought to make much of the fact that no Canadian interests were mentioned, as if any Canadian firm would want to be known in a protest of such a nature as is bound to subject it to such biting criticism.

Well, to-day we carry along the story just a little further, and can give some names to the Tory Press which can be investigated by them, and we shall be glad to print the replies sent by these firms if the "Daily News" will wire them.

The first protest was lodged about two weeks ago. The second was lodged on September 20, over the signature of Alfred W. Foster, as Secretary of the Paper Makers' Association of Great Britain and Ireland, whose offices are at 26 Farringdon Street, London.

That is fact No. 1 which the "Daily News" might verify, the "Telegram" also.

This protest was addressed to the Secretary, Trade Facilities Act,

Advisory Committee.

The names of the particular individuals and interests from whom comes the protest do not form any part of the record, but several names might be given here which would answer our contemporaries' request for "details." These firms naturally do not want to get into the limelight, and are at present using the Papermakers' Association of Great Britain and Ireland as their mouthpiece.

Now for these names. We think that Mr. Foster, the Secretary of the Papermakers' Association, is the permanent secretary of that Association and is not known as being substantially financially connected with any mills or group of mills in Great Britain.

The Executive Committee of the Association which authorizes this protest, consists of Messrs. Wood, representing North Eastern Paper Co.

Lomax, representing Darwen Paper Mill.

Jepsom, representing Star Papermill Co.

Dixon, representing Dixon and West March Paper Mills.

Cousins, representing Imperial Paper Mills.

Armstead, representing Thos. Owen & Co.

Bradley, representing Chas. Marsden & Sons and Donside Paper Company.

Chadwick, representing Chadwick and Taylor Ltd.

Dodson, representing Fisher and Company.

And also a representative of Sun Paper Co.

So much for the Old Country interests involved. We should be glad, let us say again, to publish any messages of denial from these firms which the "Daily News" or the "Telegram" can obtain.

Now enter the stage the Canadian Interests, on whose behalf we understand that Mr. Hall Caine, Jr., is acting. It comes as a surprise to learn that the son of the distinguished author is so actively and substantially interested rather more in the foundations of books, that is, pulp and paper than in what is printed upon the pages.

Mr. G. R. Hall Caine is given as one of the Directors of the Saguenay Pulp and Power Company, and has been residing in Canada, we understand for about two years. About the end of the war he was appointed by the British Govt. Paper Controller.

At any rate, we understand that Mr. Hall Caine, has stated that in connection with the protest against Imperial concessions to Newfoundland in connection with the Humber, he is acting for the following Canadian Companies:

LE COMPAGNE CHICOUTINI PULP AND LUMBER.

THE ST. LAWRENCE PULP AND LUMBER.

THE BAY SULPHITE CO.

THE SISSIBOO PULP AND POWER CO.

CLYDE RIVER PULP CO.

Now let the Daily News get busy and let us have information about these firms.

We have met the challenge of the Tory Press, and the above information clinches the argument. The "News" talks about the brand of veracity in the Advocate office, and the "Telegram" meanders over the place in attempting to throw doubt on our assertions.

We have proved our case to the hilt and it now rests with the "Daily News" and "Telegram" to show whether they have the manly spirit to acknowledge that they are beaten.

It will also be known whether these papers, who have announced their disapproval of such a protest from such sources will now have the courage to put this protest right in the class to which it belongs, as an impudent and jealous attempt to stop this development of our pulp resources in Newfoundland.

If these protesting interests see that they are up against all Newfoundland public opinion they will not be anxious to get out into the limelight and up against the aggressive criticism that should be levelled.

Now, "Daily News" and "Telegram," what about it? WHO IS TELLING THE TRUTH NOW?

We shall have other features of this protest to refer to to-morrow. Today we rest our case after completely smashing every argument of our opponents.

Greeks Will Remain

In Thrace

ATHENS, Sept. 25.—Spurred to greater effort by the popular clamor for its resignation, the Cabinet of Premier Triantafyllakos is developing unexpected cohesion and strength and may even live out the present national crisis. It has added new members to the ministry, chosen with a view to popular support, has appointed General Papoulas Governor-General of Thrace and designated three popular generals to proceed to Thrace and push the work of reorganizing the army there. In the meantime the note from the Allied powers disclosing communication to Kemal Pasha has had effect on Greek people like a frigid and undesired shower bath. Greece is not looking for more trouble, said one official today, but intends to go right on with the task of building up her army in Thrace. In Thrace Greece is and in Thrace Greece will remain the watchword of the Greek people. If the cabinet finally falls internal difficulty will begin. Athenians are passionately divided on the great issue of King or Venizelos. Alleged royal protest to summon Genl. Metaxas to the premiership or perhaps to even invest him with dictatorial powers is the burning theme of discussion. Metaxas told a correspondent that if called upon he would collaborate effectively with Venizelist party in the interests of national unity.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Marquis Landsdowne informed the Times that his mansion at Berreen, County Kerry, Ireland, had been looted and burned and valuable plantations on the estate destroyed. He says he is unaware whether the deed was committed by Free Staters or Republicans. Marquis Landsdowne has been several times a cabinet minister, Governor-General of Canada and Viceroy to India.

SMYRNA, Sept. 25.—Kemal Pasha has allowed until Sept. 30 for the evacuation of the remaining refugees here. If vessels are not sent they they by refugees will be taken into interior.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Reuter despatch from Athens says Admiral Bristol has informed the Greek Govt. that United States will undertake to protect with destroyers the remaining one hundred fifty thousand refugees at Smyrna, if Greece provides means of transport. The Greek Government has accepted offer.

WOULD KILL O'DUFFY

DUBLIN, Sept. 25.—An attempt made last night to kill General Owen O'Duffy, chief commander of the Irish civil police, it was announced today by the Free State government. General Hogan and two other officers were proceeding along Naas Road when their autos were ambushed by heavy revolver fighting in which the attackers were driven off.

History Repeating Itself?

(Trade Review)

A generation ago Newfoundland, under British supervision, of course, entered into a commercial agreement with the United States, known as the Bond-Hay Convention, that agreement arranged for trade reciprocity between Newfoundland and the American Republic on terms very favorable to the fishing industries of this country.

Although that agreement was negotiated to a successful issue, it never became operative. Canada interfered. The Canadians objected to the agreement on two points: First, that it discriminated in favor of foreigners and against the fishermen of Canada in fisheries in which all Britons, by virtue of their nationality, should have equality of interest; second, it gave to Newfoundland certain trade favors that were not extended to Canadians.

The Canadian argument was fallacious and illogical, of course. Still, at that time, as, perhaps, even now—Canada was one of the best-favored of British Dominions. So, Canada's protest was heeded in Imperial circles; Newfoundland's interests and protests were ignored. The Bond-Hay Convention had to be abandoned. Canada could not share in its benefits in common with Newfoundland, so Canada would not permit Newfoundland to share these benefits alone. Sort of "dog in the manger" policy.

And now, according to the Government press of this country, Canada is again butting in on Newfoundland's affairs. It is true that there is no foreign country now concerned as the "party of the second part." But this, if The Advocate's story be true, makes the situation even more indefensible. The Advocate says Canadian pulp and paper interests are protesting against any British guarantee of bonds or of part of bond issue of the Humber proposition. It asserts that its information comes from an authoritative source and that Canadian interests are endeavouring to secure the co-operation of British interests in this effort to "double-cross" Newfoundland in this connection.

Such a line of conduct on the part of Canadians can be ascribed only to jealousy or to a desire by the interests concerned to maintain for Canada a practical monopoly of pulp and paper manufacturing in the Dominions of the British Empire. It represents a deliberate and calculated blow at the industrial interests of this country and, if successful, is calculated to set back the clock of progress and prosperity in this Island for a century to come.

A Humbermouth proposition properly financed and operative within the next few months would solve the economic and employment problems of Newfoundland. It would solve some of the most pressing present-day problems. It is a development ardently desired by all who have the highest interests of our common country at heart.

If Canada's protest succeeds, Canadians of all classes—even though but a limited and utterly selfish class be concerned—will have the melancholy satisfaction of knowing that they have struck an effective blow at the very vitals of this country.

AMAZING FACTS FULLY EXPLAIN TANLAC SUCCESS

How 30,000,000 Bottles Were Sold in Less Than Eight Years. Big Montreal Druggists Enthusiastic — Thousands of Users Publicly Endorse It.

The tremendous demand for Tanlac continues unabated, ever increasing. Millions have rallied to its standard unsolicited and thousands have given public endorsement. That the large druggists everywhere are enthusiastic over this sensation of the trade is evidenced by the letters received with orders. W. A. Hoyer & Co., whole druggists of Denver, Colo., writing under date of July 17, state: "We are submitting today our order for the fourth carload of your goods since April 1. Taking into consideration local conditions this demand is not only exceptional but alone in the record sales for proprietary articles in this section."

The National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Ltd., Montreal, state: "Tanlac continues to lead the parade as our sales of proprietary articles go. We sold 239,640 bottles within the year."

Since the first of the year it has been necessary to establish two new branch offices, one in New York and one in Los Angeles, and the large modern laboratories at Dayton, O., Walkerville, Canada, and Mexico City are working over-time but are still unable to keep up with the deluge of orders. Tanlac has been on the market less than eight years but more than 30,000,000 bottles have been sold to date.

And the foreign field has been entered with the most phenomenal success. Mexico now knows Tanlac as well as the people of the United States and Canada, while Cuba has received the celebrated medicine with enthusiasm.

The reason for this amazing demand is found in one word: merit. No proprietary article could long survive the acid test of time and public trial if it did not possess real value and produce actual and positive results. It cannot depend merely on whirlwind advertising and "first call" appeal. Back of Tanlac's unprecedented record in the drug trade is Tanlac's success in producing results, and when this fact is thoroughly impressed there cannot possibly be any mystery in Tanlac's achievement in such a short time—the achievement of gaining the top of the heap and holding undisputed leadership over all preparations of its type ever produced.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

To Open Branch.—Messrs. T. Walsh and F. Reid, of Parker & Monroe, Ltd., the well known boot and shoe manufacturers and dealers, left for Grand Falls by yesterday's express to finalize arrangements for the opening of a branch store there. Mr. F. Kinsman of the firms West End Store, will be in charge of the new branch.

Patridge Plentiful.—Patridge are reported fairly plentiful on the Southern Shore grounds. Mr. Levi Chafe, the veteran sportsman had 30 birds on Friday for a morning's work.

Arrives by Silvia.—W. J. Cosgrove, manager at New York for the Red Cross Line, arrived in Halifax yesterday by the Silvia enroute to Newfoundland, where he will spend a vacation of two weeks, returning by the next trip of the Rosalind from St. John's. He is accompanied by Mrs. Cosgrove.—Halifax, Sept. 19.

Raisins Increase in Price.—The wholesale trade received a notice yesterday from Sun Maid Raisin Growers of Canada, Ltd., announcing an increase in raisins as a result of the war in the Near East. Smyrna is the great raisin producing country for the English market and as a result of the war a hundred thousand tons crop cannot be shipped. English wholesalers are turning to California and the prospects are that a large proportion of the California crop will go across the sea. In any event it would seem to be a good time for wholesalers to stock and retailers to buy raisins.—Halifax, Sept. 19.

Much Credit Is Due Community Nurses

A band of workers in this city of whom little enough is heard but the result of whose efforts in the cause of humanity is far reaching, are the Community Nurses, Misses Cunningham, May Lacey, Squires and Parsons, whose duty it is to visit new-born babies and babies who are ill, for the purpose of seeing that they get the proper treatment. The visits of these self-sacrificing workers are greatly appreciated by mothers of large families or who have very delicate children and it is a fact that many infant lives have been saved by their efforts. While this work may not have that appreciation from the general public that it deserves, it is nevertheless a fact that there is nothing but the highest praise to be heaped from many mothers who have been the beneficiaries of the efforts of the Community Nurses.

Obituary

MISS MARY MARGARET VINICOMBE.—The passing of Miss Mary Margaret Vinicombe, oldest daughter of Councillor N. J. Vinicombe, M.H.A., and Mrs. Vinicombe, Duckworth Street, was learned yesterday throughout the city with very sincere regret.

Miss Vinicombe had been ill for some time and although of late her recovery had been despaired of, the end came as none the less of a blow to her parents and numerous friends.

Deceased was in her 16th year and was of a particularly bright and genial disposition. She was a graduate of the Presentation Convent where she was a general favourite with teachers and fellow-students. She was widely known throughout the city and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. In the sympathy being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Vinicombe, The Advocate joins.
